This page is a mystery box game where the user has four box choices. Once the user selects a box, a dialogue pops up to make sure the user wants to make the choice. Pressing “No” returns the user back to the initial prompt with no change in the winning box, while pressing “Yes” takes the user to either a win or lose page. Each of these pages is an informative dialogue showing the user if they won or lost the game, encouraging the player to try to win again on the win page or try again to win for the first time.

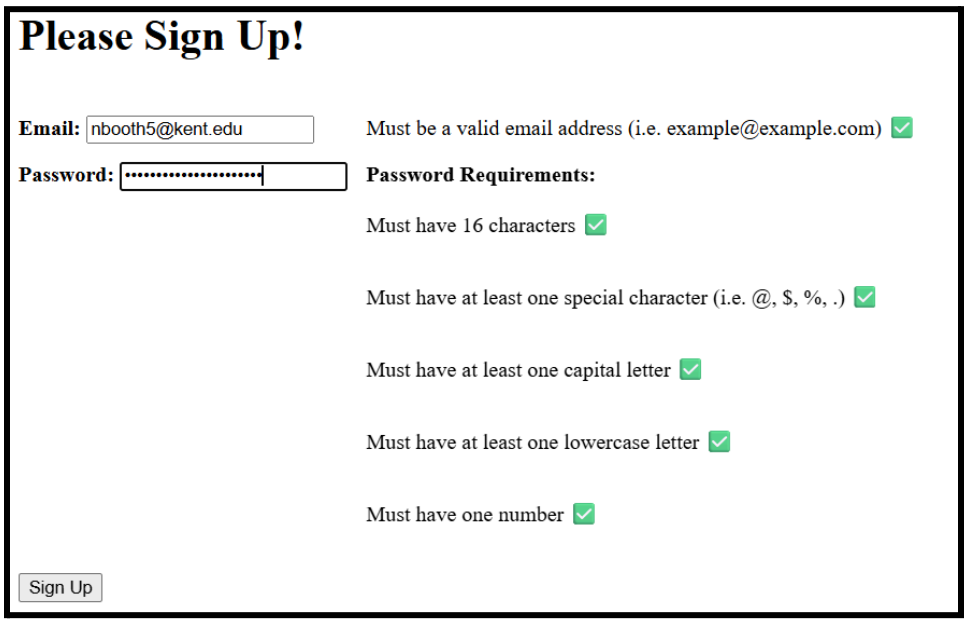

Rule: Error Handling

This page requires the user to sign up for an “account” following specific requirements for email and password to sign up. Once the user successfully signs up, the user sees a congratulations dialogue! However, the user will see if there is an error, with emojis showing a requirement's status of satisfied or not. If the user clicks sign up before seeing a checkmark for each requirement, the user will see a red-text error message showing a failed sign-up.
